Colonel Juan N. Medina, Villa's chief of staff, appealed this afternoon to the American Red Cross for aid for the hundreds of wounded revolutionists being brought into Juarez.

Dr. C. E. Braden, at the local branch of the fied Cross in El Paso, in the absence of Dr. H. E. Stevenson, promptly transmitted the appeal to National Secretary Charles L. Magee, in Washington.

Be sure and see us.

Medina proposes that the wounded be moved to El Paso for treatment, and that they may be regarded as noncombatants by the military authorities. He makes this request in order that those who survive may not be held under a recent ruling of the War Department affecting combatants in battle. Dr. Braden says he has made provisional arrangements to care for the more dangerously wounded at Hotel Dieu, and is endeavoring to secure quarters for the rest at Fort Bilss. Miss E. C. Lesser probably will serve charge of the corps of nurses.

From it all members of the judicial body hearing the case had to draw their conclusions. case had to draw their conclusions, a task of far greater proportions than appears on the surface.

Question of Jurisdiction.

The question hinged largely on the jurisdiction of the committee in hearing a protest based largely on an error in judgment on the part of an official. Early in the hearing, and, as a matter of fact, before the real question at issue had been brought forward, and issue had been brought forward. Robert N. Pollard, representative of Richmond College on the committee offered a resolution to the effect that unless misconduct or fraud had been incorporated in the charges, the committee could not hear evidence, basing his contention on a previous : bling of a previous committee, in 1804, to be specific, on a protest by William and Mary, on practically the same grounds. the protest had been disallowed because "misconduct and fraud" had not en specifically charged.

Fergusson, representing William and Mary as counsel, presented resolutions from the athletic council of that school, setting footby the Our store is the recruiting ation for all who want to in the Overcoat Ranks. William and Mary had the officials rendered their decision in accordance with the rules. This resolution was carefully heard before the question as to the jurisdiction of the court was dis-cussed. It was after the reading of the cussed. It was after the reading of the resolutions that Mr. Pollard raised his the previous protest in 1904 was discussed, and its effect upon the present deliberations weighed. Rives Fleming, who then, as now, represented Hampden-Sidney, voted in the previous hearing to dismiss the protest, but last night he felt that precedents could not carry for nine years, at least that's the way he expressed himself when referred to by Mr. Pollard. Altogether ferred to by Mr. Pollard. Altogether, it was a lively discussion.

He had accepted the statement of Coach Dobson and the word of Umpire Robinson, whom he considered the most experienced of any of the three officials, and had let it go at that. He never anticipated a protest.

As a fitting finale for the whole procedure Reforce Witt was called for He wasn't present, but telephone calls brought him to the front, and he corroborated a previous statement by Dobson that his reason for accepting Umpire Robinson's version over that of Headlinesman Goodwin's was that he telt that Goodwin had left his post of duty and could not Judge what had happened. With this mass of evidence the committee went into executive seasion, and the crowd wulted. It waited until 1:10, when the verdict was readered as set out in the resolution printed at the top of this story.

AMEND CONSTITUTION

Already Prepared, and League President Makes Strong Plea.

Amendments to the State Constitu-tion, adding the words "and female" after the word "male" in the clause in egard to qualification for voting, with consequential amendments adding "or she" after "he" in : number of places, proposed by the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia, have been submitted to all members of the incoming General Assembly. Outlining the plan of campaign for female suffrage in Virginia, Mrs. Lila Meade Valentine, president, has sent to all members the following letter: following letter:

Dear Sir,—The Equal Suffrage League of Virginia proposes to have introduced at the coming session of the Legislature a joint resolution to submit to the qualified voters of the State an amendment to the Constitu-tion of Virginia whereby the right of suffrage shall be given to women or equal terms with men.

In view of the world-wide character of this movement, and the rapid progress which it is making in the United States and in Virginia, we trust that you are giving this matter your careful consideration.

Moreover, we desire to call your at-tention to the fact that there is now tention to the fact that there is now before Congress an amendment to the national Constitution which seeks to remove the sex discrimination in this matter of the suffrage. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon members of Congress from the Northern and Western States for the passage of this amendment. The women of the South, and of Virginia especially, although regarding their enfranchisement as of primary importance, following the tradition of their people, desire to receive this enfranchisement desire to receive this enfranchisement from the men of the several States, rather than through Federal enact-
